He's a baby. He can't do anything for himself.

He only drinks milk. He needs lots of sleep.

When he is about one year, he learns to walk, talk and eat.

He learns to be more independent than babies.

He starts school, in this phase, he learns to do lots of things, such as: reading or writing.

He is 17 years old. He gets ready to be adult. He is more independent than children.

His body changes a lot. He gets taller and there is even more brain development during this time.

He is an adult. He gets his job and he lives on his own or with his partner.

He has two children, they have their human life cycle too.

He is in his later stage of being an adult.

He is retired. He is not as strong as before.

He has two grandchildren, he is a great grandfather.

Read Mike's life cycle, then organize your thoughts using the visual thinking technique. This is a useful link about it. Don't forget to include the different life stages.
