

Wendy goes shopping

Salesperson: Good morning, young lady. How may I help you?
Wendy: Morning. I'm looking for a Mother's Day gift.
Salesperson: Okay. How about getting your mother a new scarf?
Wendy: Hmm. How much is that scarf?
Salesperson: Which one?
Wendy: The red one with the embroidered mini-roses.
Salesperson: Oh. It's only $57.00.
Wendy: Wow! That's too expensive for me. Do you have anything cheaper?
Salesperson: Hmm. How about this one?
Wendy: Umm... I don't think my mother will like the design on it. How much is it anyway?
Salesperson: It's $26.99.
Wendy: Umm. I don't have that much money.
Salesperson: Okay. How much do you have to spend?
Wendy: I'm not sure. Probably about fifteen dollars or so. I've been doing chores around the house to earn some money. This is all I have.
Salesperson: Hmm. How about this belt?
Wendy: That's really pretty, but the price tag says $16.99, and I know I don't have that much money.
Salesperson: Well, let's say the belt just went on sale. How about $15.00. What do you say?
Wendy: Oh, thanks. I'll take it.
